Global financial markets are shifting gears. Forward gear shifts focus on improved economic growth, improved corporate earnings, low unemployment in developed economies and low borrowing rates in the US, Eurozone and Japan. But an equal number of reverse shifts are developing; rising inflation, monetary tightening, labour constraints (higher wages) and subtle but important shifts in the tectonic plates of politics and trade.

Within our asset allocation framework we remain overweight domestic and foreign equities, nominal bonds and cash while significantly underweight domestic inflation linkers. So far this has been the correct approach. We anticipate that we will lighten long duration nominal bonds as the "Ramaphosa rally" comes to an end and as US bonds potentially send us another signal that trouble may be brewing within US financial markets. Based on this key signal we have already raised cash in the foreign component of your portfolio where applicable.

Time will tell whether recent developments within the domestic political landscape are net positive. We remain cautious as the balance of power has yet to tilt towards the light. The lack of any meaningful follow through on the rand or nominal bond yields suggests that, while the market has re-priced the Zuma put it remains sanguine on the Ramaphosa call option.

The performance is calculated for the portfolio. The individual investor performance may differ as a result of initial fees, the actual investment date, the date of reinvestment and dividend withholding tax. The fund is invested in portfolios of collective investment schemes that levy their own charges, and which could result in a higher fee structure for the fund.
