Collective Investment Schemes are generally medium to long term investments. The value of participatory interests or the investment may go down as well as up. Past performance is not necessarily a guide to future performance. Collective investment schemes are traded at ruling prices and can engage in borrowing and scrip lending. A schedule of fees and charges and maximum commissions is available on request from the manager. The Manager does not provide any guarantee either with respect to the capital or the return of a portfolio. Feeder funds invest in portfolios of other Collective Investment Schemes that levy their own charges, which could result in a higher fee structure for the feeder fund. The Manager retains full legal responsibility for the fund, regardless of Co-Naming arrangements. Transaction cutoff time is 14:30 daily. Each portfolio may be closed for new investments. Valuation time is 15:00 (17h00 at quarter end). Prices are published daily and available in newspapers countrywide, as well as on request from the Manager. THE INVESTMENT PROCESS

- As over 90% of companies are purely focused on one region, we initially have a top down asset allocation process to decide on the geographic and sector tilts and that is done with the assistance of our in-house macro team and the Jones Lang LaSalle direct market supply and demand data.
- We check that valuations are not already pricing in our expectations which lead to our geographic and sector tilts.
- We have a focus on quality and tradability. We therefore apply a liquidity screening to eliminate poorly tradeable stocks.
- We research companies that are likely to benefit from long term trends such as the strength of global trade hubs, the growing problem of data obesity, valuable voids and the evolution and modernisation of retail.
- We do our fundamental analysis for each of the companies selected and look at corporate characteristics such as quality of assets, location, active and strong management with well defined strategy, solid balance sheet, scale advantage and resilient earnings.
- We end up with a "Buy" list of stocks in which we have high conviction, and construct a portfolio of around 50 stocks.
- We also have a risk management process, apply various risk controls and have a rigorous "sell" discipline.

FUND MANAGER COMMENTS

Stock markets around the world had a very negative – and volatile – end of the year, especially in December. The S&P Index, for example, had its worst December since 1921 falling 9.1% over the month. The MSCI World Index fell 7.7% in December. Real estate stocks fared slightly better, but were still down heavily in Q4.

Within the portfolio, our overweight position in Japanese corporates proved beneficial as did our weightings in small caps Vastned Retail and ADO Properties. Conversely, our overweight position in some US and European large caps was detrimental to performance, particularly in office and industrial REITs. US names such as Boston Property, Vornado, Prologis and Liberty performed poorly as did LEG Immobilien and Unibail in Europe.

During December, we made some changes to the US part of the portfolio to better reflect our 2019 view and our thematic approach to investing. Over the quarter, we decreased exposure to ‘traditional’ real estate sectors like retail and office to focus more on sectors we think will profit from longer-term trends. This includes data centres, industrial, healthcare and self-storage.
